OSHA has established a Local Emphasis Program targeting Spray-on Bed Liner Applicators. This emphasis program will involve compliance inspections in shops performing this work, and focus on the hazards of overexposure to methylene diphenyl isocyanate (MDI), a highly reactive, toxic compound that can result in long-term lung impairment, including asthma.

The MA Division of Occupational Safety offers a free, confidential On-Site Consultation Program designed to help employers recognize and control health and safety hazards, and to achieve compliance with OSHA regulations. The program, which is separate from OSHA, also assists employers in developing an effective safety and health program. Companies using the Consultation Program will have their inspections deferred until they have had an opportunity to complete any abatement actions called for in the consultation report.

The On-Site Consultation Program and OSHA will be offering a free training session for bed liner applicators on March 29, 2005, focusing on the following areas:

- What the Local Emphasis Program will mean to you
- How to inform your employees of the hazards of chemical products
- Specific information on the hazards of methylene diphenyl isocyanate (MDI)
- Requirements for respirators used during application
- How to select appropriate personal protective equipment
- Fire hazards
